To Anne Warren Weston

«Mansfield, Mass.» The writer received the petition to Congress to abolish the slave trade in the District of Columbia issued by the Boston Female Anti-Slavery Society. Got 200 signatures on it. Explains its untidy appearance by saying it was in his hat, which blew off in a storm. Thought of copying it, but decided against it. Refers to a mob in his neighborhood. Says the respectable members of the mob are ashamed of their part in it. Says a majority of the voters of his town are in the Anti-Slavery society.

«Springfield, Mass.» The writer is sending a roll of one hundred names to the great Massachusetts petition (to the Legislature). Dwells on the difficulty of securing names and of answering the question: "who is Latimer?" fifty times over. Repeats the excuses made by those who refused to sign. A number of men refused because they had become "non-resistants, no-government, woman's rights & 2nd Advent men." The cause has progressed in Springfield, especially that of ultraism. The writer explains that her family are not the Springfield Stearnses who are New Organization people. Bridgewater, (England). The writer does not quite understand the effect on Slavery of Clause V of the U.S. Constitution. A pamphlet entitled Extracts from the Proceedings of Convention "from Mr. Maddison's papers," seemed clearly to prove to the writer that Gov. MacDuffie's statement that Slavery is the cornerstone of the Union, was right. The writer has been studying the early history of the Anti-Slavery movement. Praises the courage of the addressee and her Anti-Slavery friends. Received the Pennsylvania Freeman and is glad to note that W. Phillips and E. Quincy understand the difference between European and Americ[illegible]ranny. Thinks that the slaves are worse off than the Pole[illegible] the Hungarians. Doubts that Joseph Barker ever understood "the evils of European politics".

The writer's society will not merge with the British & Foreign Anti-Slavery Society. Thinks that Joseph Sturge is "making up with George Thompson." The London Times is gradually coming around to the right view of Slavery. The writer discusses internal dissension among the Abolitionists, mentioning particularly the case of F. Douglass. Mrs. H. B. Stowe's letter to the Glasgow Abolitionists mentioned the Temperance cause. Blames the English churches for not preaching strongly against drunkenness. Holds it to be inconsistent to attack slavery in the U. S. and overlook intemperance in England. Holds Mazzini to be more co[illegible]nt in his actions than Kossuth. To Mary A. Estlin

[Lands End, England] The writer acknowledges Miss Estlin's thoughtfulness in furnishing her with many particulars. To be away from Bristol is to be away from Anti-Slavery action and interest. Reflects on how little more than sympathy is advanced to the slave, and wonders if much of this inertia may not be traced to the policy of the Broad Street Committee. Really intelligent people know so little of what is taking place in America. Has met some who were acquainted with "every thing that is going on in the world but slavery ... the greatest evil in the world." Rejoices that the report is out; trusts that t[illegible]vocate will do still more good service, and that the [illegible]ngth of Miss Estlin's father may be equal to the strain of preparing articles for it.

To Epes Sargent 1813-1880

Bristol. Thinks Thessaly, Epirus, and Crete may be joined to Greece as result of Turkish war against Christians. Prince Charles Hohenzollern to be King of Hungary but coalition of Danubian states of Bulgaria, Serbia, and Bosnia would make powerful Danubian Confederation. Germany to receive universal suffrage by grant of king of Prussia. Will probably produce like demand in England. Deplores Johnson's traitorous attitudes, and denounciation of Charles Sumner, Wendell Phillips, and Th. Stevens.

To William Lloyd Garrison

.Jacksonville, (~~Fla.~~ Ill.). The ideas of W.L.G., the Liberator and the American Colonization Society have been discussed in the writer's community at length. Doubts if the colonization scheme would benefit either negroes or whites. Disapproves of emancipating the slaves without protecting them in some way. They and the community in which they live must be elevated together. Part of the western territories should be assigned to them. Cites the progress of the immigrants in Illinois. Claims that the negroes cannot "be elevated where they are."

29 Nov. Vol.14

To Mrs. Maria (Weston) Chapman No.66

[Westerly, R.I.] Sends some poetry requested by the addressee. The writer, having read an article signed by the addressee in the Liberator of November 13, declares his acquiescence in the sentiments expressed therein, but would like an elucidation of the meaning of certain statements. Discusses nonresistance. The writer heard Mr. (Henry C.) Wright lecture on the subject, and thought it "the most harmless fals [sic] doctrin [sic] ... that I ever heard." Also discusses Sabbath observance. The writer fears that some of the abolitionists "retard the progress of emancipation" by insisting too much on amalgamation.

«Gardner, Mass.» Answers the letter sent to Frederick Parker, soliciting aid for the Western conventions. Mr. Parker is absent "and also a Millerite, and of course little interested in the Anti-Slavery enterprise." Encloses two dollars in contributions. Many were disaffected toward Mr. John A. Collins because of remarks he made in Gardner last winter. He "spoke in such condemnatory terms" of church organization that some of the good abolitionists, nearly all of whom are connected with the church, refused to contribute.

To Caroline Weston

[4 Court St., Boston] George Latimer has been ransomed for $400 and there will be no trial. The writer reports Marshal Lincoln as saying "he should not have admitted any ladies to the Court Room except by the general entrance." It would therefore not have been practicable for the addressee to get into the room. The writer repeats a story about Judge Harrington, a justice of the Supreme Court of Vermont in 1811. Refusing to be satisfied by all possible proofs of title to a fugitive slave made by the slaveholder's agent, the judge was asked what would satisfy him, and replied; "Nothing short of a bill of sale from God [illegible]ghty."

To Caroline Weston

[4 Court St., Boston] The writer thanks the addressee for sending an invitation to the fair. Believes that the addressee will find the public interest in her enterprise at least twice as great as last year. "The Latimer case has excited a most unexpected degree of anti-slavery feeling in the class of people who come under my observation particularly." Dr. Whipple told the writer that he had obtained the signature of about 60 lawyers for the great petition.
